

Raberge's Leadership Martial Arts'

Three Class Rules

Make Eye Contact

Look your teacher and other adults in the eye
when they are speaking.

This shows that you are listening and demonstrates respect for your instructors and adults.

Answer Up

Answer all questions and instructions with “Yes/No, sir” or “Yes/No, ma’am.”

This is the best and most respectful way to answer your instructors.

It's also courteous to refer to other students this way.

Follow Instructions

By doing what you're asked, when you're asked, how you're asked, the first time you're asked to do it, you show great focus, effort, and self-discipline.

This makes class a success for you and those around you!

These rules are very important to follow while in class, at home, and in school. By looking your parents and teachers in the eye, answering respectfully, and always doing your best with every task, you will demonstrate and have a Black Belt attitude in all areas of your life!
